Imprisonment. Gen. Tracy Puts in the Day Examining Papers-An Application for Bail Will Probably Be Made

Today.

By Telegraph and the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—The city was all agog this morning, when it learned for the first time, from the staring headlines of the newspapers of the ar rest and incarceration of Erastus Wiman, the man who has been such conspicuous figure in the commercia life of the metropolis. Contrary to custom, in cases of distinguished pris oners, no favors were shown Wiman when he was locked in the Tombs les night. In fact, he was given quarters in murderers' row. In answer to a note sent in this morn ing by a newspaper acquaintance, asking for a statement, he sent out the following reply: "I would be very glad to do so, but, under the advice of Gen Tracy, my counsel, I will make no guatement till my turn comes. When the ammunition of the moving powers against me is exhausted, and their hired men are done arraigning and trying me in the newspapers, it will hen be time for me to speak." The warden says Wiman passed good night, bearing up bravely under his troubles.

Wiman's son visited him this morn ng and, after coming out, said his father would not try to get ball today, as it was a holiday, but would prob-ably arrange for tt tomorrow. The im-pression is that he is not anxious to get bail

Gen. Tracy said tonight that he ha been busy all day looking over the indictments and examing the papers re-lating to the charges made by Dun against Wiman, and tomorrow will en-deavor to have his client released on Wiman's promise to speak when hi turn comes, it is expected, will give another color to the story already told of the alleged forgeries. He says he has committed no crime, but only did what he had a right to do by reason of his ousiness relations with the mercantile agency. Beyond this asesrtion, Wiman declines to discuss the allegations made to make a public statement of facts concerning the charges against him.

United ates District Attorney Brinsmald said today: "I was surprised when I learned of the trial in the justice's court vesterday. The matter has not been yesterday. The matter has not been brought to my attention yet, but if a complaint is made I shall do my duty fully. If the men are so foolish as to break the laws of the United States they must suffer the consequences." Another attorney said: "Something will be done in this matter at once. I have just been examining statutes and find that men organizing as armed bands, for the purpose of waging war on the citizens of the United States or on the government itself, come under the head of treason and conspiracy."

It is generally understood that the matter will be brought before the Federal grand jury, and a special sitting will probably be called. The case will be fully reported to the Attorney-General at Washington and will be pushed to an issue. Catholics, and those opposed to the American Protective As-sociation for other reasons, have be-come aroused against the order since the details of the gun-purchases have been made public, and efforts will be made to crush the society in this city, where for two years they have held the balance of political power.

By Telegraph and the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Secretary of Agriculture Morton has written a letter to Representative Sibley of Pennsylvania, defending himself against the strictures made against him for his position on the question of government aid in the extermination of Canada thisties and other matters affecting agricultural interests. He incloses a let ter which he wrote to Gov. Shortridge of North Dakota, in which the follow ing language occurs: "No one more than myself appreciates the importance of exterminating this and other nox-ious weeds which infest the farms of the United States, but I do not think it the business of the government to destroy weeds for the people any more

The House Absentees Oppose Arrest.

They Threaten to Sue the Sergeant-at-arms.

Petition for a Caucus as to a Quorum.

The Senate Listens to the Reading of the Declaration of Independence-Senator Martin's Two Resolutions.

By Telegraph and the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Washingon's birthday was marked by dramatic incidents which may possibly culminate with legal proceedings against the sergeant-at-arms for false imprisonment of members of Congress. Sergeant-at-arms Snow, acting by virtue of a general warrant of arrest issued last Monday, has been apprehending members wherever found. The warant contains the names of fifty-six

Congressmen. Snow began last night to arrest Congressmen on the floor of the House on warrants charging them with absenting themselves on Monday. This was in accordance with a colloquy between Speaker Crisp and the seargeant-atarms during the session yesterday. Snow asked if he was expected to arrest members on the floor. Crisp answered that the sergeant-at-arms was expected to "execute orders." This was ccepted as meaning that the arrests on the floor should be made, and Snow at once began to carry this idea into effect. He arrested seven Congressmen as they sat in their seats and Deputy Hill made as many more arrests. In Hill made as many more arrests. In each case the member was tappend on the shoulder and told that he was released on parol to report when re-

This morning the arrests began again and continued until interrupted by a stirrring scene. Mr. Cummings came just as the session was about to open.
Deputy Hill stepped up to him and notified him that by virtue of the warrant he held Mr. Cummings would be placed under arrest and his parole taken. The Congressman flushed and took the matter seriously. He stepped back and in bitter language denounced the effort to arrest him. He refused to recognize the validity of the warrant. "I give you fair warning," said Mr. Cummings, "that if you touch me you act at your peril."

For a moment it looked as though there would be serious trouble, as Mr. mings plainly intimated he intended to resent the slightest touch in-dicating arrest by force. The deputy quickly withdrew, however, as the orders of the sergeant-at-arms are to avoid indignities to Congressmen in every way possible. The members apprehended threaten to secure suitable redress and talk of legal proceedings for false imprisonment. Sergeant-at-arms Snow says: "Great care has been taken to avoid giving offense to members. My orders to deputies are to proceed with the greatest caution and deference. We do not arrest members as though they were merely notified that their names are on the warrant and then the member is touched to make the service effective" A petition for a Democratic caucus to consider the adoption of a rule by which a quorum may be secured was in circulation on the floor of the House today just before adjournment. Mr. Paynter fathered the idea. Many Democrats refused to sign it, including most of those opposed to the Bland bill. Pennsylvania Congressmen are en deavoring to arrange to have Repre-sentative-elect Galusha A. Grow sworn in March 4, as that will be the thirtyfirst anniversary of his retirement from ate are much disturbed over the stitua-tion concerning the tariff bill. They used half a holiday to make a decided effort to agree upon the features of the bill, so as to insure passage. They did not make any marked progress, and will continue the effort tomorrow and Saturday undisturbed by other official business, as the Senate has adjourned until Monday. Whether the call for the caucus cir-culated today shall be considered serieusly will depend upon the succes of Democratic Senators in reaching an agreemnt without this conference. The call was circulated quite vigorously for a short time during the early part of the session, and about fifteen names had been secured when the effort was suspended. It was presented as a rule to Senators known to be urging changes in the bill, the result being that many of those in accord with the sub-committee on tariff were ignorant of the fact that the call was in circulation.

There is no doubt that a sufficient number of signatures has been secured to insure calling a caucus, as only to insure calling a caucus, as only five are required for that purpose, but it would appear the signers do not in-tend pressing the call if a satisfactory agreement can be arrived at without a agreement can be arrived at without a caucus. There is little doubt that Senator Gorman is in accord with the movement for a caucus. He was present at the conference earlier in the day, in which the circulation of the call was decided upon. Six Senators took part in the conference, Gorman, Butler, Hill, Murphy, Brice and Caffrey. frey.

today and listened to the reading of the Declaration of Independence. Sen-ator Harris, president pro tem, on whom the duty naturally fell, asked to be excused, and at his sugestion it was read by Senator Martin of Kansas. Before the reading, some routine business was transacted. Senator Martin of Kansas offered a resolution in-structing the Finance Committee to prepare a bill for free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. He also pre-sented a resolution directing the Judi-clary Committee to prepare a joint res-olution providing for election of Senators by a direct vote of the people, At the conclusion of the reading of the Declaration of Independence, the Sen-ate adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE.—Mr. Pence of Colorado, as a matter of personal privilege, explained that it was not true, as stated, that the Populists attended a Democratic caucus on February 19, though in entire sympathy with the resolutions adopted by that caucus; that it was the duty of the Democrats to attend the sessions of the House and transact business.

Mr. Cummings of New York denounced vigorously the attempt made to arrest him this morning by the sergeant-at-arms. He declared he had been present at the sessions of the House daily, hours before and hours after the sergeant-at-arms was there. He told that official and assistants to arrest him at their peril, stigmatizing as unbridled tyranny the attempt to arrest members on Washington's birth-day. In the name of the American people he protested against holding a farcical session on a national holiday, and in honor of the memory of George Washington moved to adjourn.

Mr. Dockery, who was in the chair, decided that, as Mr. Cummings had been recognized for personal explanation, he could not make a motion

Mr. Bland moved to close the debate on his seigniorage bill at 3 p.m. on Saturday, and demanded the previous question.

Mr. Cummings again moved to ad-journ, but it was lost by 102 to 124. Mr. Cummings demanded the yeas and nays. The Republicans and the Democratic opponents of the bill voted for adjournment, but it was lost, the vote being 117 to 140.

Bedlam broke loose and most intense excitement prevailed this afternoon, when the arrested members were brought to the bar of the House. The validity of the warrants was questioned, Gen. Sickels claiming that the sergeant-at-arms was liable to action by each member arrested. Several at-tempts to adjourn were unsuccessful, and on two occasions the sergeant-atarms was compelled to clear the aisles

Great confusion arose over Gen. Sickles's demand to be heard on the question of privilege. As a way out of the difficulty, it was decided to hear the report of the sergeant-at-arms, givmessrs. Richards, Jr., Beltzhoover, Messrs, Richards, Jr., Beltzhoover, Clancy, Coffeen, Cooper, Cummings (who refused to acknowledge arrest,) Dunn (who protests,) Erdman, Harter, Kribbs, Mahon, McAleer, McCreary, Mutchler, Reilly, Rush, Sickles, Hulick,

McDowell, Johnson and Woomer. Sickles then said: "I demand a sep-arate trial." Amid the turmoil and pounding of the gavel, the Speaker pro tem, ordered Mr. Sickles to sit down, and he obeyed. The list of prisoners was then called. Mr. Adams of Penn-sylvania announced that he was absent in Pennsylvania, voting for a mem of the House, "and," he added, "partly through my efforts, we rolled up 177,-000 majority for Galusha A. Grow."

(Republican applause.) Mr. Reed moved that Mr. Adams be discharged, and that his name be stricken from the warrant. Mr. stricken Sickles protested that there were no names in the warrant, and that it was null and void. Sensational Charges Preferred Against O. T. Dyer-The Story of a Mortgage to Be Told in Court.

RIVERSIDE. Feb. 22.-(Special.) Again the Riverside Banking Company is brought before the public, in some sensational charges made in a suit brought by Lawrence Keister and A. S. Funk against, the bank, and especially against its former manager, O. T. Dyer, erstwhile designated as Riverside's

"Napoleon of Finance."

It was back in September, 1888, states the complaint, that plaintiffs purchased of the bank, through O. T. Dyer, two certain lots in the Riverside Lund and Irrigation Company's tract, and were given a deed to them. The lots at that time were covered by a mortgage halt time were covered by a mortgage to cover a note of $800, the mortgage made to the Riverside Water Company by Gilbert Crook, but which had subsequently, and before the purchase of the lots by plaintiffs, been assigned to J. F. Houghton, A. S. White and Aberdeen Keith. The complaint alleges that "O. T. Dyer represented to plaintiffs that said mortgage was not a valid and existing lien on said lands, but that the same was a second mortgage only, and that the lien thereof had extinguished by the conveyance to defendants of said lands to satisfy a first mortgage, which defendant had held thereon; and, further, that said second mortgage could be satisfied and discharged by defendant for a much smaller sum than the face thereof, towit, 50 per cent, thereof; and, further, that plaintiffs could not discharge the same for less than the face value thereof, together with the interest, and that, if plaintiffs would permit defendant to satisfy said mortgage, defendant could make a large sum thereby, by reason of defendant's peculiar knowledge of the conditions surrounding said mortgage; that, if plaintiffs would pay to defendant the entire purchase price of said lands, and not retain such sum as would be necessary to liquidate said mortgage and secure the release thereof, defendant would immediately satisfy and discharge the same and cause the same to be released of record."

Relying upon these representations plaintiffs allege that the entire purchase y Gilbert Crook, but which had subse-uently, and before the purchase of the

A demand was then made upon defendant to cancel the mortgage, and Dyer assured them that they "might be just as sure that said debt would be paid, and said montgage released before suit is brought, as though plaintiffs had the money in their pockets."

The complaint states, further, that defendant continued to promise that the mortgage would be cared for, but in December 30, last, plaintiffs were made defendants in a foreclosure suit, brought by the holders of the notes. Plaintiffs now ask that the court order defendant to cancel the mortgage and pay damages in the sum of $2500, claimed by them by reason of the refusal of defendant to cancel the mortgages, as agreed.

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat:) "The funniest thing I witnessed during that brief but exciting period known as the boom, in Birmingham, Ala." said Dr. Everett at the Lindell, "was the formation of a cyompany to establish a monkey farm. About the time that excitement was at its greatest height, two Hebrew bankers from a country town came with $40,000 in cash, and were very anxious to get into the little group of capitalists who were making big money. They haunted two or three of the leading investors until finally Dr. Jackson, who stood at the head of the local financial world, told them he had a friend with a scheme, in which he himself was putting in $20,000, and if they really wanted to invest he could, as a persona I favor, secure a like amount, if one-half was paid down, the other half to be paid in at a meeting to be held in a few days. The banker wrote a check for $10,000, and felt jubilant that at last-he had been admitted into the charmed circle of financiers. "In a few days he was notified to

into the charmed circle of financiers.
"In a few days he was notified to attend a meeting of the stockholders, which he did. Then the promoter of the enterprise explained it. His plan the enterprise explained it. His plan was to buy an island near Mobile. Send an expedition to Africa and South was to by an island hear monies. Send an expedition to Africa and South America to secure monkeys. Stock the farm with 100,000 monkeys and raise them for the market. An elaborate array of statistics were given, showing the cost and market price of monkeys, and figurnig out immense profits, but it was necessary that the entire amount subscribed should be paid in at once. The banker jumped to his feet. 'I don'd vant no monkey farm. I knows nodings about fose monkey business. You can keep my $10,000 if you release me from dot subscription.' This was done and he swallowed his chagrin and disappointment at the loss as best he could. In a few weeks the money was returned to him, and it was explained that it was all a joke, but the banker had a $200 dinner to pay for."

PRINTING MUSIC.

One of the Most Difficult of All the Crafts.

Music Printer Must Be a Genius-It Requires Four Hundred Different Characters and Special Knowledge.

(Boston Herald:) When a reporter was sent recently to inquire into the mysteries practiced by the music printer, he first made inquiry at a music dealer's, and soon afterward was stum bling up the five flights of stairs in an old business block on a busy downtown street. There, occupying the loft, he found a shop crowded with forms and cases of type. There were only two or three men at work, doing what they had to do quietly and easily.

had to do quietly and easily.

The proprietor was sitting at his desk in a retired corner, reading over the documents of his business. After explaining his errand, the reporter asked: "What is the special difficulty in setting a page of music? Is it anything aregular compositor could not do, at least after a little practice?"

"To be a fair music printer," was the answer, "you must be a genius in the first place. You need not know music, to be sure—perhaps it is ketter that you should not, for then you may think you know more than the composer, especially as no two men ever read harmony alike, and try to improve his score for him—but the business requires instant and accurate ness requires instant and accurate udgment, perfect familiarity with every box in the case, beside a great deal of skill and quickness in actually setting your type. You must know every times more besides."

In the case which holds the necessary "sorts" there are no less than 400 varieties of type, by far the greater part of which must be used in setting a large piece of music—one of the songs for instance, sometimes printed on a page of the Sunday papers. When the reporter was shown these various characters, and how intricately they must all be made to combine so as to print without a break or crack anywhere to be seen, he did not wonder to hear the proprietor continue: "You cannot conceive how much labor is involved in setting a single sheet. Why, it would require an expert and half a dozen newspaper columns to describe it in all its minue details."

But if the reader wil call to mind a locomotive puzzle he will get a general idea of the operation. The reporter saw a measure set up for his special benefit. There must have ben fifty pieces put in it before it was perfect.

The printer takes his stick in his hand, like all printers, and adusts it by means of a screw to the required length. Sometimes it is more, sometimes less, so that to measure by the "stick," as done in anewspaper, would be meaninglyless.

Then he looks at his "capy" and sees the model for the puzzle which he has to solve by means of the 400 characters in the box in front of him. He is an experienced and skillful workman, let us suppose, and will not take long in getting a practical answer.

Every symbol which the author has used is ready at his hand, the more common ones in the middle of his case, those less frequently utilized stowed away in the farther corners.

But at is not so simple as all that. The author may have used one sort of symbol, or he may have used one sort of symbol, or he may have used one sort of symbol, or he may have used one one one one one of the corners of the heart of the heart of the hard of the succeeding symbol, so that the whole may come out even at the staff. There is the difficulty, to come out even to other to be too irregularly strung out and every syllable of which must be often proper leng sent out, but every office which does sent out, but every office which does musical printing keeps two or three men to do such small jobs as are wanted on almost every score.

There are four sorts of music type ordinarily used—agate, used for most sheet music; diamond and excelsior, for Sunday-school books and the like; and nonpareil, for the larger kinds of book and sheet work. Then there are the big blocks for school charts, unlike the others, not electrotyped, but printed directly on the paper. On these, by the way, the joining of the "sorts," which has been spoken of above as being almost undistinguishable in the finer kinds, of work, may easily be discovered. In the lase of the blocks the fitting is not only not so delicate, but the ink does not help obliterate the traces of joining to any extent.

No wonder that there are now more No wonder that there are no hard than twenty men, at most, in Boston, who are experts in this beautiful and delicate craft—although Boston, as the delicate craft—although Boston, as the state of the s reader may like to know, does more music printing than any other city in the United States, probably more than any two others. In all there are four any two others. In all there are four shops here.

"How long does it take to master the trade?" asked the reporter.
"About three years, on an average, I should say; although that boy there," pointing to a sturdy young Italian not more than 19 years old, "is as good a printer as there is with only about eighteen months' experience—better, indeed, than many a man I have seen who had worked half a dozen years at the business."

Not more than five or six men are required in a good-sized shop. A fairly

Not more than five or six men are required in a good-sized shop. A fairly gdod printer will set three pages of simple music in a day. Given a difficult instrumental score, however, and he will not get through with more than one and a half pages. He is paid, not by a certain number of "ems," but by the sheet. The "boss" makes his price to his employer for settling a certain amount, of copy which varies greatly according as it is simply or elaborately written, and in the same way he pays his men a proportionate sum per page. This price is always, at least approximately fair, and when business is not dull the printer, if he is a good one, makes from $20 to $25 a week.

"Do you ever employ women?" was

"Do you ever employ women?" was the last question the reporter asked. "Not many—they are not a success usually, though one woman, who worked for me twelve years and is now running a place of her own in Chicago, was as good a music printer as I ever had."

was as good a music printer as I ever had."

New York's Charity for Divorced People.

(New York Sun:) New York now looks with great lenity upon divorced people, and it, would cause surprise in almost any circle of society, if the statement were made that divorce Impaired in any way the social position of either one of the parties rendered two by the courts. It was not many years ago when divorce was a social calamity, which carried with it practical banishment. Nowadays it does not affect the social standing of either party, unless some great scandal has formed a part of the publicity attending the proceedings. If either one of the divorced persons manry again, the past is cheerfully forgotten. At a dinner party of twenty-eight people on Thursday night of last week, which preceded a dance in a fashionable house on Fifth avenue, there were two husbands and two wives who had been divorced within the past six years and who had married again. This fact did not excite any comment at the dinner, except on the part of two old New Yorkers, who happened to be present. People familiar with the court proceedings in the divorce cases referred to were amused on reading the list of guestis at the dinner party in question in the papers on the following morning. It was not an unusual the list of guests at the dinner party in question in the papers on the following morning. It was not an unusual or startling incident, but it served to show how thoroughly the bar surrounding one of the "mest cheristed institutions" has been broked down in recent years.

Modern Essentials.
(New York Advertiser:) Physical cunture, Delsarte exercise and ballet steps are now combined with the ordinary dancing lesson in private classes, and quite as much attention is paid to the movements of the body and arms as to

It is, of course, a great improvement on the old fashion of simply teaching on the old fashion of simply dancing steps and rhythmic Premieres danseuses from the dancing steps and rhythmic motion. S. D. Hall of Chaffey and A. D. Oliver of the University of Southern California started. Oliver led from first to last, but there was much criticism of his manner of walking, the general opinion being that he stretched the pace so nearly into a "jog" that he should have been disqualified. E. W. Hopperstead was the sole judge of walking, and as he did not rule Oliver off, the other officials had nothing to say in the matter and were consequently not obliged to shoulder any of the blame. Sterling kept up with Oliver to the end of the third quarter, where he became winded and went off the track. Thompson finished second. Time $21.

The 440-yard dash brought out O. C. Mueller of Occidental, I. L. Whitney of Pomona, Charles Hall of Chaffey and E. E. Elliot of the University of Southern California. Mueller got in first in the time of 0:56 2-5; Whitney second. Elliot third.

yesterday afternoon, but owing to mis-management on the part of its promot-ers the affair was not so successful as had been confidently expected.

In the first place, not having adver-tised, few if any outside of the mem-bers of the association and their friends knew of it, consequently there were not over 300 people in attendance at the hour set for the commencement of the day's sport. Had the weather been more propitious it is probable that in more propitious it is probable that in spite of the counter-attraction nearer to town the crowd might have been considerably larger, but the fact remains that the majority of those who journeyed out to the park were sportloving Britishers who were either directly interested in the success of the affair themselves or were indirectly so through friends.

The programme arranged bade fair to be one of universal interest, since it contained flat races at various distances, a hurdle race, and a three-mile steeplechase, an event hitherto unknown to local race-goers. To the disappointment of those who went out for the express purpose of seeing this race, however, it was declared off at the last moment. A late start and unnecessarily long waits between events also tended to mar the enjoyment of the entertainment provided.

The first race, a mile handicap, was called at 2:45 o'clock, when Walter Maben's Vendome, Al Richardson's Los Flores, E. T. Allen's Belle and W. A. Palutt's Our Steve faced the starter. Although Nick Covarrublas was on hand and did his best to coax the sportsmen present to invest, not a cent entered the pool-box on this race, but a lonesome "bookie" pencilled a few bets on Vendome at 3 to 5, and offered 2 to 1 against the field, in vain. The quartette was sent off at the first attempt to a ragged start, with Los Flores in the lead, our Steve, Vendome and Belle being strung out in the order named. These positions remained unchangd to the quarter post, when the favorite began to move up, and, as they raced along the backstretch, he gradually overhauled and passed the leaders. At the half he was a good open length ahead, and from that time forth the result was never in doubt, Vendome romping home, under a pull, with a length to spare. A pretty race for the place resulted in favor of Our Steve.

The next event, a quarter-of-a-mile dash for Shetland ponies, afforded considerable amusement, both for the youngsters who rode the seven miniature horses, and the crowd who applauded their reforts. It was won han neck.

In lieu of the steeplechase, which was declared off, Mr. Parker gave an exhibition for the benefit of the crowd by riding Fanny over the water jump covernal times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19.-The

"SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19.—The residence of Simon Jacobson, the money-lender at No. 1427 Howard street, was entered by burglars early Saturday morning while the occupants were asleep, and was robbed of about $12,000 in coin and jeweiry."

The San Francisco Chronicle of the same day, received yesterday, gives the details of the affair as follows: "Simon Jacobson of No. 1427 Howard street has reported to the police that Friday night burglars entered his residence and stole $5000 worth of diamonds and $555 in cash from a trunk. One of the men suspected of the crime is supposed to be en route for Los Angeles, and may be arrested there today. The other man is supposed to be in hiding in this city.

geles, and may be arrested there today. The other man is supposed to be in hiding in this city.

"Mr. Jacobson sells diamonds and jewelry on the installment plan, and is accustomed to keep a large stock secreted in a trunk in his residence. He kept the trunk in a hall downstairs, but explains this apparent bit of carelessness by the statement that he did kept the trunk in a hall downstairs, but explains this apparent bit of carelessness by the statement that he did so in order that it might be more easily removed in the event of fire. At 2 o'clock Saturday morning the people next door were awakened by two burglars, who were seen breaking open the trunk in a back alley. Before officers could be summoned the thieves had secured all the valuable contents and made their escape.

"One of the burglars entered by the kitchen window and let his accomplice in through the front door. They wrapped an overcoat about the trunk, so that it might be handled with less noise, and carried it through the dining-room to the kitchen and from there to the alley. The lock of the trunk quickly yielded to several well-directed blows from an axe, and it was but the work of a moment to pick out the diamonds. The thieves did not molest the valuable silverware and silks in the trunk."

orbiting her neatth, which had of late not been good.

Since she arrived in this city Mrs. Garnier has been stopping at the Phoenix, on North Spring street, which house is kept by her mother, Mrs. Keily.

The property stolen at San Francisco is stated to consist of about $900 in cash and $5000 worth of diamonds.

MRS. GARNIER'S STATEMENT.

BANK OF AMERICA—TEMPLE BLOCK. THE ARRESTS MADE.

As stated in the article above quoted, the San Francisco police had reason to believe that at least one of the guilty parties had come to Los Angeles. Chief Crowley, accordingly, telegraphed to this city, stating that he held a warrant, and asking that the parties be arrested. BUSINESS. rrested. Detectives Benson and Auble were as-arrested.

Detectives Benson and Auble were assigned to the case, and, shortly before noon yesterday, arrested J. W. Allen, ared about 30 years; Harry Earl, aged about 18 years, and Mrs. Garnier, who is the mother of young Earl. The detectives are still working on the case and state that they hope soon to recover the stolen property.

When the three were arrested they were about to drive to the Santa Anita ranch. Mrs. Garnier, who is employed in the mint at San Francisco, is a relative of Lucky Baldwin, and when she first arrived in town, explained that she was here on a three weeks' leave of absence, for the purpose of visiting her relatives in this locality, and recruiting her health, which had of late not been good.

Allen represented himself as a man of means traveling for health, and made himself very agreeable to both Mrs. Garnier and her son. When Mrs. Garnier secured her leave of absence, and announced her intention of visiting her relatives in Los Angeles. Allen told her that, as he had never been in Southern California, if she had no objection he would accompany her. No objection was raised, and the party came to Los Angeles, arriving here Tuesday night and going directly to the Phoenix lodging-house on Spring street, where they have since remained. Last evening an effort was made to secure Mrs. Garnier's release on ball, and her relatives and friends offered to furnish any amount required up to $50,000, but this was refused.

Disgraceful Street Scene.

A little scene which occurred on First street, between Main and Spring First street, between Main and Spring streets, early yesterday afternoon attracted a good deal of attention. A man with a brass-band voice was standing in front of a store and was using that voice for advertising purposes. A drunken man, who chanced to come along, began to dispute the statements made by the man with a voice and a war of words ensued. The latter of the two men told the disputant to leave promptly and stop his talk, or the sidewalk would be mopped with him. Loud profanity, which must have been heard for quite a distance, was indulged in by both sides before the drunken man left. No arrests were made.

AMUSEMENTS TONIGHT.

LOS ANGELES THEATER-A Railroad Ficket, BURBANK THEATER-The Danites.

SHORT-SIGHTED STATESMEN.

A Washington special to the Cincinnati Times-Star, which was pub-lished in yesterday's Times, draws a contrast between the methods of the Democrats in trying to destroy the sugar industry of the country which are adopted in Germany. During the past two years our government has paid out an annual bounty of eight to ten million dollars, which has encouraged the construction a number of beet-sugar factories in the Western country, which have employed a large number of men, and has enabled thousands of farmers to raise a profitable crop on land where were previously scarcely able to make a living. But the bounty was not Democratic, you know. So bounty had to go-or will have to go, something should drop in the different it is in Germany. Al though the beet-sugar industry in that country has been developed for a quarter of a century, yet the bounty to producers continues. A bounty has paid in this country only about two years, and has averaged less than $8,000,000 per annum. Germany paid in and drawbacks to producers 1886-87, 108,821,000 marks, or over 00.000. Last year she paid about the same amount that was given to our producers, and although there neavy duty on imported sugar in that country, she derived from sugar duty only 695,000 marks, or about $170,000. Had raw sugar imported into this country paid as much duty upon the pound this government would have last year received from that direction about $100,000,000. After they shall have destroyed the wool and sugar industries we presume that the Democrats will be looking around for something else to knock out. What the people would like to know is where that much-talked-of prosperity is to come from after all this work shall have been accom-plished.

THE CUTTING UP OF LAND

It is an encouraging sign of the times that our land is gradually cut up into small holdings. The extraordinary rosperity of France and its wonderful ecuperative powers in the hours of distress are directly due to the fact that a very large percentage of the French people are land-owners on a small scale. The land is under the highest state of cultivation, supporting a numerous, industrious and well-to-do population, men who look to the products of the soil for the maintenance of their homes and the support of their families. It is claimed that the United States is haven of refuge for the poor and ppressed of the world, a land where he nobility of labor is thoroughly established, and the remuneration of welldirected, individual exertion greater than in any other country. Some enthusiastic writers go so far as to look rich men; they claim that our climatic advantages are such as to insure us an everlasting crop of capitalists, to whom money is no object, and that to do is to "gather them in." Let us not deceive ourselves. The erea of the great State of California extensive for a continuous pleasure resort. Riches and poverty go hand. The majority of people in all communities are men of small means. Riches are fleeting, poverty is in all countries a hard condition. The industrious middle classe are the bone and sinews of a commonwealth. To the latter we have extraor dinary inducements to offer in the shape of lands that yield handsome returns for hopest work. In the products of the soil, more particularly fruit culture, will be found the lasting elements of greatness and prosperity for our glorious State. Let us have "small farms, well tilled." Let us have plenty of

CLIMATE AND BLIZZARDS

Some weather sharp has been discovering-or at least has announced that he has discovered-that the recent terrible blizzard which swept across the country was generated, or at leas entered the continent, in the neighbor hood of Los Angeles. This statemen seems to have led to some misconception among our Eastern friends. judge from the following paragraph in the Chicago Post:

"Where the summer lives forever, where the roses bloom at Christmas time—in short, in Los Angeles, Cal.—sprang the so-called Dakota blizzard which got Chicago by the throat early this morning. If this is the best the glorious elimate of California can do cfor its friends, we renew our allegiance to the glorious climate of Manitoba, for the storm now raging is the worst experienced by this region in ten years. Snow, cold, wind seventy, miles an hour, traffic stopped, no cable-cars, no other side of the street—a fine tribute this from the bloom-billowed seas."

If that blizzard was born anywhere

If that blizzard was born anywhere nd here, we of Los Angeles ceraround here, we or Los Angeles ter-tainly know very little about it. Per-haps it was that little blow when a vessel was stranded at Redondo. If that is so, it is terrible to think how rapidly these blizzards grow after they reach their native lair, which appears to be somewhere between Chicago and the North pole. Meantime, what the average Eastern writer does not know about the climate of Southern California would fill a large book.

IAMUSEMENT RECORD. AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

LOS ANGELES THEATER .- "A Railroad Ticket," a so-called farce-comedy, was presented at the Los Angeles Thea-ter last night, to a big audience, and, as a variety show, it was passable as a play it was the very worst of the season. If there were not a number of clever people in the cast, who can dance and sing, it would be a hopeless of clever people in the cast, who can dance and sing, it would be a hopeless case, but the people and their specialties save it. It could be greatly improved by toning down some of its broadness and eliminating a large part of its horse play and alleged funny business, which is by no means funny, but decidedly tedious. When the people quit being gay and sing and dance all goes along merrily and entertainingly. The farce is built on the same lines as "The Bunch of Keys" and "The Rag Baby," but it lacks the elements of comedy which made the success of that class of plays, although the ticket scalper would seem to be a character around which might be constructed a comedy that would be droilery itself. Harry Blaney does an immensely clever turn in an eccentric dance that is a novelty. Harry Porter is an eccentricity in the comedy line with a capacity to make a face that would hold up a train or stop a clock. James Reagan has a beautiful tenor voice, which he uses to advantage in a number of bailads. Anna Caldwell is a very shapely young woman, who dances with grace. James T. Kelley is a c median will a manner that is somewhat reminiscent of Charley Reed. Arthur Moulton, formerly with Frank It is a curious fact that while we are living in a semi-tropical country we have not yet learned to regulate our diet accordingly. The rigor of a New England climate requires a man to parwhat reminiscent of Charley Reed. Ar-thur Moulton, formerly with Frank Daniels, has brought into "A Railroad Ticket" a number of that actors' man-neriems and much ability of his own, and there are a number of others in the company who deserve to have their talents employed in a better play. The take of such food as would not be conducive to health in Southern Cali-fornia. We are eating too many fat, greasy substances and too much meat for our own good. The delicious fruits the company who deserve to have their telents employed in a better play. The ensemble singing and dancing is very clever, and-there is an excellent quartette, composed of Messrs. Kelly, Porter. Reagan, and Russell. There is a great amount of snap to 'the performance, and, judging by the numerous recalls, the audience enjoyed it, and that is all the company claims to be here for. The same bill for the remainder of the week. There will be a matinee tomorrow afternoon. and vegetables of California, as well as our wholesome native wines, are too often conspicuous by their absence from our tables. We change our place of abode but do not change our food accordingly. We are overloading our systems, spoiling our digestion, and in many instances the climate is found fault with for not curing disorders contracted in the Eastern States. Repu-table physicians tell us that more sickness is caused by eating improper food than from any other reason. We do not

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Home Production and Other Matters. EL MONTE, Feb. 19 .- (To the Editor of The Times.) The shoe bill of this county must be at least one and one-half millions of dollars. This would require if made here, some 300 skilled operators, which, with their families, mean an increased population of 2000. When you were making that noble fight against the union—the foreigners—the proprietor of a shoe factory, operating with some 250 hands in San Francisco. wonderful roads and carried a weight of armor and luggage that would crush the average form hand, lived on coarse brown bread and sour wine. They were temperate in diet and regular and constant in exercise. The Spanish peasant works every day and dances half the night, yet eats only his black bread, onlon and watermelon. The Smyrna porter eats only a little fruit and some olives, yet he walks off with his load of one hundred pounds. The coolle, fed on rice, is more active and can endure more than the negro fed on fat meat. The heavy work of the world is not done by men who eat the greatest quantity. Moderation in diet seems to be the prerequisites of endurance.

We are further advanced in civilization than the people of Southern Europe, and yet we can learn many things from them. Let us introduce the products of our soil more largely into our homes. The fact that fruit is cheap does not make it less palatable, Articles of food considered luxuries in many countries are here almost frea a water. Let us study the laws of health and regulate our mode of living accordingly.

KEEP OUT THE ANARCHISTS.

London has for a long time been the headquarters for Anarchists, who have been driven out of other cities in Europe, it is likely, however, that this state of affairs will soon come to an end, partly on account of recent outrages which have been committed in England by those people and partly on account of formal protests which have been committed in England by those people and partly on account of formal protests which have been made to the British government by other European governments on account of fact that mose of the recent outrages on the continent were planned in England. The British police are to be given extraordinary powers and England will be made very warm for the gentlemen of the red fing and dynamite bomb. Such being the case, we shall have to be on the lookout in this country, which is about the only civilized.

Figure 1 and 2 and with some 250 hands, in San Francisco included that if the unions com-for excellent government. What makes the difference? Township government. The first Monday in March is Town Meeting day, I think, in all the New England States. Then all the free-holders in each town meet to hear reports from all the officials. Then comes the election of officials for the coming year. All these people have grown up together and been mutually well acquainted for a generation at least. Almost universally the best man is nominated, and it is irrespective of party. The nominee, feeling that he has been elected because his neighbors think he is the best man, aims to repay the compliment paid him, and strives to do the utmost for the best interests of, and at the best possible cost to, his constituents. The chief pay for official services in the local governments of New England is honor. Here it is money, money, money, money, The town meeting is a great and elevating political school. It manufactures patriotism. Such people, it may be said, can never be conquered, and are always patriotic. Your great ancestor, H. Gray Otts, who will ever live in history, must have approved of this system and no other. This system is right opposite from ours, and is just what California wants.

SAVED HIS CAR. A Serious Accident Averted by a Cable

Gripman.

A terrible accident, with possibly great loss of life was averted on the cable-car viaduct yesterday morning apparently by the remarkable presence of mind of the gripman. Car No. 58, with Jack Mooney at the grip, was ap-proaching the viaduct from the east. Just as the car was about to go up the steep incline what is known as the shoe of the brake, dropped off so as to throw the front wheels of the car from the track. At this instant the car was throw the front wheels of the car from the track. At this instant the car was at the point, where there is a sort of hole in the framework between the tracks. The car tipped considerably toward this hole but the dummy held its place on the tracks.

Gripman Mooney, instead of letting go the cable kept the grip set till he reached a point near the top of the incline when he released the grip and immediately set the brake on the dummy, which brake, it will be understood, was still in order.

The sudden stop tilted the car with violence but the passengers got on to the platform, between the tracks, without any of them being injured.

Under ordinary circumstances it would probably be impossible to release the grip when the car is going up the steep incline and set the brake before the car would run backward. In this case, however, the car having left the track, the tendency to run backward down the incline was not so great.

MIDWINTER FAIR.

A Night Picture in the City of Palms.

Some of the Lessons of the Great Exposition.

The Omnipotence of Human Skill and Invention.

The Force of Mind and the Mastery It Has This is Surely the Age of Machinery.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16, 1894.—In the building of Mechanical Arts the hush of the Midwinter Fair is at length fully broken by the whir of mighty wheels, the roar of giant en-gines, the stir of the printing press, the clack of the loom and the mighty rush of all the various enginry beneath its roof. Invention is abroad in its gates, attended by the modern giant of Industry, his swart brow covered with the beaded drops of perspiration, his arms brawny and his hands hardened by toil. How the great iron-wheeled monsters leap into action in obedience to the will of man. The steam roars, the electric fires flash and soulless iron is instinct with activity, and in this building we see the force of mind and the mastery which it has obtained over inanimate matter.

Here, where the operating dynamos and engines, the centrfugal pumps and all the machinery of the fair are placed, as their thousand wheels are awhirr, and the great untiring machines in their swift and regular revolutions accomplish the work which an army of men and hundreds of horses would be required to accomplish without their aid, we marvel at-the skill of human invention, and the might of that strange, subtle thing which we call mind. We wonder at the advance which civilization is making, at the tireless energy of this nineteenth century, and the grandeur of the progress which has achieved all this and which is still striving to accomplish even greater and the great untiring machines in striving to accomplish even gr wonders.

One of the lessons which these great One of the lessons which these great expositions are teaching us is the multiform vastness of human end-avor and the omnipotence of human skill and invention. Here in this building is stored the lightning, and when these from monsters stir, the darkness fees tremblingly, and thousands of lights, through all the grounds flash into splendor. Night dies through all this enchanted space. The gigantic electric tower bursts into flame; the incandescent lamps flash forth like newlycere. cent lamps flash forth like newly-cre ated suns; all the colors of the rain gleam from the electric four gleam from the electric fourt Along the great palaces, like a rive fire, runs the glow and gleam of thou sands of lights. Out of the womb o night is born the glory and the bright ness that defies the darkness and make ness that defies the darkness and makes is as luminous as the moon. Is this the same race that, conturies ago, sat by the dimly sholing tapers, and which, fettered and bound by unknowing Ignorance stumbled in search of the scarce-opened pathways of discovery? How blank and dark to us seem the pathways which men trod even four centuries ago.

And there in the brilliant light of this grand Central Court, with these monumental pdlaces about him, which it would have taken years to build in it would have taken years to build in his day, and which then would have darkened as the night came on, stand the colossal figure of the great ex plorer. Between the then and now his day, and which then would have darkened as the night came on, stands the polossal figure of the great explorer. Between the then and now what a fathomless guif has been spanned, what undreamed-of achievements have been accomplished. How much more does life mean, how infinitely broader the field of human effort and knowledge!

Floating softly on the balmy, midwinter air comes the first strain from the band stationed in the grandstand at the head of the court. The melody deepens, and the music fills all the space about us. Crowds are moving to and fro. The myriad water drops tinkle as they fall into the fountain's bed. Lights gleam from every window of all the many buildings about the court. Jinrikishas glide swiftly past. Then here is a gaily-dressed Turk with his silken fez, with perhaps a stolid-faced Indian close following in his wake. Gay belles from the city and country lads and lassies. The windows of all the cafes are ablaze with light. China, with thousands of years of empire confronts us from her great pagoda. Hawaii is in view, and the streets of Cairo are just around the corner. The Palace of, Fine Arts looks down on us like an Egyptian pyramid. The Sphinx is there on its strong pedestal, with a gaze which looks into the past and takes no note of the present or of coming years. The palms wave softly, as if the breath of the warm Orient stirred them. Is this the atmosphere of the Nile that floats about us? No, for the Nile saw never such nights of splendor that put to blush the full moon and quench the light of all the stars. Look well, and all about us proclaims today and the gry of the nineteenth century. We are learning here something more than we knew before of human achievement, something more of the grand promise of civilization. It is one of the lessons taught us by the Columbian and Midwinter fairs.

It is results that have weight in this age. Men theorize, but theories count for nothing unless there is resulting achievement. In this fair, as in the great Columbian eximple sheet and own wha

Bad Case of Alcoholism. About 10 o'clock last night a tele

About 10 o'clock last night a telephone message was received at police headquarters to the effect that a man had attempted, or was about to commit suicide in his room, at No. 423 East Seventh street, and that the presence of an officer was earnestly desired at conce. Officer Huston was immediately dispatched to the scene in the patrol wagon, and, upon effecting an entrance into the room designated by the frightened inmates of the house referred to, found a man evidently upon the verge of delirium tremens, lying upon the bed. On a table near by were an open knife, a razor, and a pistol, and, as the man had threatened to commit suicide by taking iodine, and had written a note to the effect that he had done so, it was deemed advisable to investigate the matter. Accordingly, the fellow was escorted to the Receiving Hospital, but, upon examination, Dr. Bryant, the police surgeon, pronounced him suffering from alcoholism only. He stated that his name was Charles A. Kemp, and told an incoherent story to the effect that he had made the threats against his life for the purpose of playing upon the sympathies of a girl of whom he was enamored. After being detained in the hospital for an hour or so, he was release 1.

SOCIAL RECORD.] IN SOCIAL SPHERES.

The handsome new rooms of the Con-cordia Club in the Burbank Theater building were crowded last evening the occasion being a presentation of amateur theatricals. The affair was most successful and was one of the most enjoyable of the many entertainments given by this club. The play selected was "Off the Stage," an orig-inal, one-act comedietta by Sydney Rosenfeld. It tells how a brother had Rosenfeld. It tells how a brother had published a matrimonial advertisement and his sister, a theatrical one, unknown to each other, both signing the name of "George." An eccentric theatrical agent comes in answer to the latter but by a mistake encounters the brother. As a result a number of amusing complications arise, but finally end by the brother and his sweatheart being united and the stage-struck girl marrying the manager. The participants acquitted themselves most admir-

The decorations were most elaborate and it was one of the prettiest affairs of the season. On the table was a centerpiece composed of many-hued violets, from white to the deepest Russian. Smilax and violets were banked upon the mantel. Sprinkled upon the table-cloth were the same fragrant flowers. At each cover were corsage bouquets tied with lavender ribbons. Dainty bonbons were served in cut-glass dishes, with clusters of violets attached to the handles. The cakes and ices were in new and ters of violets attached to the handles. The cakes and ices were in new and pretty designs. The menu cards were very beautiful, and were decorated with violets and bore appropriate quotations from Shakespeare. They were the work of Mrs. Scott, a sister of the hostess. The guests were: Mmes. William Cochran, W. A. Elderkin, Hunt, Anna Averill, Hubbard, Scott, Skinner of Cincinnati, William Caswell, Pease, and Miss Hunt.

SURPRISE PARTY. There was a very pleasant surprise party given by the young people and their friends in Grace Methodist Episcopal Church on First street, Wednesday evening. It was in honor of George A. Grubb's thirtieth birthday. There were about 125 persons quietly seated in the church. Mr. Grubb was induced

The Social Guardsmen achieved a grand success last evening, more than two hundred couples attending the second ball, given under the auspices of the club, and thus clearly demonstrating the popularity of the new organization and its efficient officers. The club is now a little more than a month old, and numbers 107 members, of which sixty-five are associate, which class includes all those who are not members of the National Guard.

The Armory presented a very pretty appearance last night, the committee having spent much time in decorating. In addition to the usual elaborate display of flags and bunting, the hall was illuminated with hundreds of gally-colored Japanese lanterns, while the head of the hall was ornamented with large portraits of George and Martha Washington. The latter was framed with national flags, neatly draped, so as to form shields, the pictures appearing in the cester. The grand march was led by President Lehnhausen, and the line was subsequently divided into four sections, going through the several evolutions simultaneously, producing a novel and most pleasing effect. The music furnished was of the best, and the floor was never in better condition. Dancing was kept up until an advanced hour this morning. Following were the committees in charge:

TIE STRINGS WAG THE BONNET.

(From Our Regular New York Fashion Correspondent.) Correspondent.)
There is a craze just now for all tricks of scarf and ribbon about the shoulders, and the cue-ribbon of the days of powder and knee breeches is borrowed from the gallants of Richard Brinsley Sheridan's time. The hair is done in a soft, short braid at the nape of the neck; is tied with a bow of ribbon having soft, short loops and very long ends; the ends are brought about shoulders, and are tied again in a bow that is caught at the side of the bodice and hangs in long streamers to the waist or below. All sorts of hats are tied with scarfs that come over the ears from the back of the head-dress and tie under the chin with long neck-tie ends. Even coronet theater bonnets have gauze scarfs, which push the side curis all the most fetchingly against the cheeks, and then tie in a soft fluff under the pretty chin, the whole lending a most quaint and pretty effect. If there is a pretty bit of throat that ought to be seen, then the ends of the scarf are carried back again and fasten at the nape of the neck. In either case, there is much less to the bonnet than there is to the scarf, that, presumably, holds the bonnet on.

This picture shows a bonnet made of turquoise blue velvet, with an edge of black feather trimming. A wisp of black aigrette rises above it, and it is fastened with blue or black velvet strings. Feathers are no longer used in the hair. Horse-hair aigrettes, the hair threaded with crystals, are mounted on delicate silver fillets and worn at the theater, but horizontal effects are sought more usually. The millinery for next spring and summer worn at the theater, but horizontal effects are sought more usually. The millinery for next spring and summer promises to be gorgeous with blosoms. A good many flowers were displayed on hats this winter, but the craze for bloom has not reached its height yet by several months. FLORETTE.

Had a Narrow Escape. R. J. Brockwell of East Los Angeles had a narrow escape from death at the intersection of Marchessault and Alaintersection of Marchessault and Alameda streets at 9:15 o'clock last night. He was driving a team attached to a swill wagon across the railroad tracks, when a switch engine, which he did not see, backed several oil cars down upon him, one of them striking the wagon and wrecking it. Brockwell was thrown some distance by the force of the collision, but, fortunately, escaped unharmed. One of his horses, however, was so seriously injured as to necessitate its being shot, while the other was skinned up considerably.

Jewels are present at every vital event of a man's life, at every ceremony a jewel marks that as a time-post in his life. He betroths his bride with in his life. He betroths his bride with a jewel; with jewelry he greets the birth of his children. The celebrations of his wedding are recognized by presents of bate and jewelry. As long as life lasts his wife wears her wedding ring, and the children hand her carrings and her breastpins down the line for generations. The older they become, the higher their value grows in their eyes. Jewelry crowns the king. In the form of badges it decorates the breasts of high officials. it decorates the breasts of high officials. Truly the jeweler is not a man of ornament merely. There is something beyond mere show in jewelry. Remembrance, affection, not to speak of utility attach to the jewel. It is the chattel which in hard days is often the last sold. And then, too, money spent in jewelry for your own use is merely money invested. Their wearing qualities are such that they endure for lives. The interest you get from your investment is the use you get from the article. A good ring, pin, pair of cuff-buttons, watch chain, watch—these do not fail in value, though you wear them for years. When you wish to realize on them, you may at any time soil them for nearly as much as you paid.

Passenger Train Ditched by a Sand Bank.

The Engineer Was Hurt, but Others Escaped.

Still Stirring Up the Rate Was Prospects.

Rock Island and Burlington in -Sympathy Sald to Be With he Santa Fe-Te Change

The high winds which prevailed yesterday was the means of wrecking a passenger train on the Southern Callfornia road in a manner that might have been far more serious than it proved to be. The Santa Fe overland passenger train, which left San Bernardine at 7:30 yesterday morning, due to arrive here at 9, was derailed at Rosena, a point about nine miles west of San Bernardine, by the engine colliding with a formidable sand hill, which had been blown upon the track in a small out. The wind was blowing a gale at the time, and sand so filled the air as to obscure the engineer's view of the road ahead of him. When the engine plunged into the sandbank it left the rails, dragging the baggage car after it, both turning over on their sides. Engineer H. Barnes sustained a severe scalp wound, which is not necessarily serious, and the freman escaped injury. No one else on the train was hurt by the sudden stoppage, though the men in the baggage car had some trifing bruises. The passengers were shaken up a little, but had nothing to complain of. A passenger train had safely passed the scene of the accident but a few minutes before, and experienced no trouble. The passengers of the morning overland, which left this city, were transferred around the wreck and the passengers of the ditched train were brought into this city by special. The track was cleared by 3 b.m.

SENTIMENT WITH THE SANTA FE. CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—Representatives of the Western Passenger Association lines today busied themselves with Canadiaa Pacific differentials. The Soo-Pacific offered to abandon its claim to a differential if guaranteed an amount of Pacific Coast business equal to that done in 1892, about 4 per cent. of the total through business. The Canadian Pacific refused to submit any proposition will be accepted, as it is considered rather one-sided, but a committee was appointed to consider and report next Tuesday. The question of the attitude of the Western association toward the struggle between the Atchison and the Southern Pacific is becoming a most important preliminary feature of the row. About three months ago, when the Southern Pacific is becoming a most important preliminary feature of the row. About three months ago, when the Southern Pacific and the Atchison had a small dispute in Southern California, the Southern Pacific promptly routed all business by way of El Paso, and shut out connections on the North. The Rock Island and Burlington are fearful that this may be repeated, and if they join issues with either side they are likely to lose heavily on intermediate business, and reither views such a prospect with complacency. If they decline to take any part in the row the Atchison will probably withdraw from the association, and the two moads stand a chance of being compelled to fight for revenue from through Pacific Coast traffic. However, the general sentiment of the association is with the Atchison and 'Frisco people, at which also were present J. F. Reinhart, president and receiver of the Atchison; J. C. Wilson, receiver at Topeka, and W. Green of Alexander & Green, attorners, New York. The meeting is preliminary to a suit to be brought in the United States Circuit Court tomorrow to bring about a change of policy. There has been a feeling of dissatisfaction among the general mortgage bondholders of the Frisco company ever since receivers were ENTIMENT WITH THE SANTA FE

mpany separate and distinct receives. They will also ask that the reviews of the 'Frisco be placed within e jurisdiction of the State courts, d they want the receivers to pay a lf-year's interest due January I, 1894, general mortgage bonds. They will k that these mortgages be foreclosed. UNION PACIFIC EMPLOYEES.

UNION PACIFIC EMPLOYEES.

OMAHA, Feb. 22.—The Nebraska employes of the Union Pacific Railway, rather than rely upon Judge Dundy vacating his wage scale order, will go into court and ask a district judge for relief on a petition. They will set up the fact that the schedule was issued without their knowledge, and that they had no opportunity to show the proposed cut in wages unjust. They will ask for time in which to formulate another schedule. A petition is being prepared by Fulton Grant, attorney for the employees in Nebraska, aided by George Vroman, chairman of the Brotter of Locomotive Engineers.

The Dress Goods Department is showing the strongest line of new desirable goods at a medium price than ever before. Fine choice styles in Woolens at 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c, $1; the prices seem low for choice goods. You will not be disappointed in the least when you see them. Silks, 35c, 50c, 65c, 75c, a large range of choice new styles at these remarkable low prices. Broadcloths, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2, $2.50, blacks and all shades. All-wool Henriettas in an extra fine German cloth, 75c a yard, the finest and best for the money we have ever been able to offer. The colors this season are extra choice. This is a most excellent wearing cloth. A full line of blacks at the same price. We show a fine line of neat small mixtures at 50c a yard—equal in appearance to dollar goods; they have that soft, nice finish that makes them so popular. Then another lot of neat Broches.at 35c a yard, all double fold. Black and white checks and black and white stripes at 75c. Fine Silk and Wool changeable effects in grades at $1.25 and $1.50 a yard; there is no goods their equal for the price in appearance and for wear; they are regular dirt resisters. Take it all in all the Dress Goods Department never presented the appearance as it has this season, and never had so many desirable styles at such low prices. The Wash Goods Department is still larger in extent, and shows a greater variety of goods at 8c, 10c, 12½c, 15c, 16¾c, 20c and 25c a yard. There is no use in buying the imported goods when you secure better styles in the American goods and at less than half the price. Trance.

It is the wretch that follows the fairs and buys hair for a living, or rather steals it, as his victims get next to nothing in exchange.

He is a drummer who never Fevisits any district where he has once plied his vocation. All good honest folk denounce him. He carries with him the hatred of the shorn maidens, the imprecations of their lovers, the anathemas of the mothers. All adjectives describing his character are employed in the superlative degree. His stops are for "one day only," and it is said of him that he considers lying as the greatest virtue. His negotiations are not confined simply to those whose poverty compels them to do anything for money. An accomplished auctioneer and a wily tradesman the unsophisticated peasant girls become a prey to his hypnotic speech.

A correspondent of the Illustrierte Chronik der Zeit has applied his kodak to a hair-buyer's booth at a fair near Limoges in the department of Haute-Vienne and accompanies his illustration with a graphic description.

In a seductive one and with a Correzian brogue he ries: "Plaos, fennas, lous piaos! lous dialous, pialous!" (Hair wanted here, adies; hair, only the small hairs.) tractive samples of his wares are displayed.

"What is a little hair? It will soon grow again." he exclaims to the poor girls who with marveling eyes, covet the dress goods and trinkets and are in a strait between parting with their beautiful tresses, which in Southern France constitute their greatest charm, and the possession of a nice wardrobe or a replenished jewel case. Many are induced to enter the tent, where another smooth-faced, smiling gilb-tongued bargainer is encountered who flatters the silly girls on their lovely contour, their brilliant eyes and sweet expression. They are told in a Joking manner that the loss of a little hairwould not in the least interfere with their matrimonial chances.

Few can withstand his persuasive arguments, and in exchange for the cheapest imitations of silks and woolens which are little better than calleo or for a plated chain, brooch or bracelet they contract to leave their hair.

Most of the girls, however, are very particular in their bargains, much to the chagrin of the hair-buyer. Those of Limoges will not relinqish their two front braids at any price and specify the exact length of the cuttings. But the rascals seldom stick to their bargain and many a tear-stained face must be brought back to its normal serenity to prevent the loss of patrons, who might hesitate at the sight of the disappointed girls.

All the fools are not dead yet, and there are plenty of guileless creatures who can be made to do almost anything by an oily tongue and the glittering girls fatuus of the world. What will surprise many readers, however, is the fact that in certain provinces in France and Southern Germany the inducements of the hawkers need not be so tempting, as peasant girls cultivate their long tresses especially for this traffic and anxiously await the appearance of these men for the sale of their hair.

has always been a staple article
treat importance in commerce, for not only is an enormous quantity required every year for wigs, chignons, false switches, artificial fronts, frizzets and curls, but it is also plaited into articles of jewelry, such as watch-guards, necklaces, etc. It is almost impossible to use the hair cut from the bodies of the dead for anything else but the latter, as it is too brittle for wigs and tresses. On account of the enormous demand of the last decade and the small weight of each head of hair (the shickest tresses from one head seldom outweighing two-thirds of a pound) the most productive fields are exhausted and long periods must elapse before it will pay to canvass them again.

Until lately Bohemia, Hungary, Pom-erania, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Italy and Spain have afforded the great-Italy and Spain have afforded the greatest supply. It seems that the great shipments from China meet with but little appreciation from the Parisian coffeurs, it being of inferior quality. Prance alone uses 300,000 pounds of hair. for this industry per year, for which she finds a ready market in England and America. Dealers claim that the belies of Normandy furnish the finest and longest hair. That of the Bretagne ladies is very coarse, but that of the peasants of Limoges and the southern provinces in general is the most luxuriant of all. The hawkers see to it that the aprons, skirts, foulards and handlerchiefs are of the loudest colors, in order to please the taste of the Corresians.

Limoges and vicinity has experienced

Timoges and vicinity has experienced many vicinsitudes from the time it was named Augustus, before the Christian era, to the present day. It has suffered from devastation by Vandals and Visingiths, from Norman invasions, and during the Hundred Years' War from fire, sword and famine, and from the ravages of the plague of 1630, which carried off 20,000 persons. It has been noted for the many great conflagrations which has reduced it to ashes again and again. But not the least of its afflictions is the irrepressible hair-buyer, who comes from time to time to disfigure the belies of the province with his handy scissors.

An Interesting Story About Judge Shackle-ford's Only Pair of Pants.

An interesting Story About Judge Shackleford's Only Pair of Pants.

(Boonville Advertiser:) I presume it is because he is so good-natured and enjoys himself telling good stories on others, that everybody feels at liberty to tell something on Judge D. W. Shackleford of this circuit, whether there is any truth in it or not, writes Col. Lon V. Stephens. One of his friends said to me recently: "A few weeks before the last general election I had some business with Mr. Shackleford that made it necessary for me to call at his residence one evening about 8 o'clock. His good wife came to the door, having in one hand a threaded needle and a button or two, while in the other hand she held a patch about a foot square. Upon inquiring for her husband I was told that he was in but in bed and perhaps he could not see me for a few minutes. I was given a seat in the library and in about ten minutes Mr. Shackleford presented himself, looking somewhat embarrassed, I thought. My business was soon attended to and I bade him good night.

"After the election I learned accidentally from a friend whom Judge Shackleford took into his confidence that when I called he was just preparing to leave on a late train for Miller county and that his only pair of pants needed a good deal of attention, and while his wife was engaged in putting on some buttons and a patch it was necessary for him to go to bed. I am glad to learn that since then the Judge has been able to lay in another pair of pants, but if he drew $1000 per week he would always be hard up—would loan every fellow who applied for $10 three times the amount wanted—would never get it back—would carry his money in his overcoat pocket, and would never want more than one pair of pants, at the same time."

ENGAGEMENT RINGS. Fashion Makes Them Vary, but Leaves Room

Fashion Makes Them Vary, but Leaves Room for Taste.

(New York Commercial 'Advertiser:) There is a large variety of engagement rings in vogue at the present time, among which are some very elaborate and unique designs, but the engagement ring that holds popular favor among the young men who are seriously contemplating indulging in nuptial functions is the solitaire diamond. About two years ago the sapphire set with a diamond was the favorite because it signified that the lady to whom it was presented was true blue and innocent too. The opal is very rarely, if ever, used as an engagement ring, because most people are prejudiced against it through superstition. Mrs. Sartoris presented Miss Nellie Grant, daughter of Gen. Grant, with an opal engagement ring, which she refused to accept, in consequence of which the ring had to be exchanged for another.

The most expensive ruby that has ever been imported into this country was one that at wholesale cost $22,000.

The most expensive ruby that has ever been imported into this country was one that at wholesale cost $32,000. It was retailed to a wealthy Californian for almost double that price. A greater number of engagement rings are purchased during the months of February and April than any other months of the year. The reason for this cannot be elucidated, unless it is because February is the month previous to Lent and April the month following.

The different stones are selected in accordance with the months of the year. If the engagement occurs in January the stone which represents that month is the jacienth or garnet; if in February the amethyst is appropriate; March, bloodstone; April, sapphire; May, emerald; June, agate, sapruby; August, sardonyx; September, chrysolyte; October, opal; November, topaz; December, turquoise.

two ago one of our popular dentists had quite a picnic in the exercise of his profession. A suffering citizen said to his wife as she started for church: "If you meet Dr. — send him over." She did happen to meet him and the man of forceps was soon with the s. c., whose courage fell to zero on seeing him. Fact was, he didn't think his wife would meet the doctor, and if the latter would accept payment for his trouble he would be glad to have him go away without torturing an unwilling victim.

"Let's see the offender." said the dentist, and then, following up the advantage he soon had five grinders where they would do no more aching. Suffering citizen was then a happy an neighbor whom he knew was also afraid of a dentist, he inveigled Mr. P. into the dread presence and after some coaxing out came twelve snags to make way for "a set." Then the neighbor in his great sense of reilef, cailed in his wife, who yielded seven more to the harvest. By this time the manafraid-of-a-dentist who had had out twelve, concluded it was just fun, and sat down for a pull of three more.

Then the doctor was out of business, and counted up twenty-seven samples of jaw misery as the result of his friendly call.

Teaching Roysity.

The London papers have so much to say of "that wonderful little woman, Mrs. Wordsworth," who is teaching skirt-dancing to the female young of the aristocray. She is said to be at the present moment teaching 10,000 pupils. The Queen, hearing of Mrs. Wordsworth's fame as an instructor of stiff ankles, sent for this energetic little lady, who was introduced to teach the children of Princess Beatrica. Possessing a stentorian voice and extreme vigor in her manner of imparting, Mrs. Wordsworth treated her little items of royalty to the same shouts and signals which she finds so effective with her great army of pupils; the Queen being present and much interested in the lesson. Next time this celebrated dancing mistress visited Windsor, however, it was politely intimated that Her Majesty's nerves had been shaken.

stroyed by the great fire which demolished the Parliament house. Then attempts were made to find the true length of the yard by the means of the pendulum, as already arranged. This method, however, proved utterly impracticable, and so the English government was compelled to make use of such copies of the destroyed yard measure as they supposed were reliable.

With a full knowledge of these facts possesed by the United States government, it seems surprising that they should not only be unwise enough to adopt the absurd English standard, in defiance to the then existing and consistent French or metric system, but also that they should employ a special measuring for the ridiculous measure from an English instrument maker. This was done, however, for the use of the coast survey. Troughton of London agreed to furnish the standard, and certified to its absolute correctness. FOR THE NERVOUS.

(London Telegraph:) In Austria the State considers itself bound to leave nothing undone to lessen pauperism and crime, and, with this object in view enjoins upon every individual the duty of bearing about with him legal proofs of his identity, and of his belonging to some one of the communes into which the empire is divided. Every one found without these serviceable documents is liable to arrest until such time as his native place has been ascertained, whereupon he is sent there. If a Hungarian or a foreigner he is thus escorted to the frontier. Considering that the communes are liable to be charged with the maintenance of the poor, it is natural enough that they should roughly shake off outsiders who are likely to become a burden to them; and, if we take into account the desire of the State to lessen the frequency of crime, we cannot wonder at its eagerness to get rid of the contingent from which the army of criminals is recruited. But the end never sanctifies the means, and it has now been proved that the latter too often result in horrible barbarities.

For men and women, innocent of crime and misdemeanor, are frequently arrested and put in prison simply because they are not in possession of the needful documents. There they lie, buried for weeks, months—nay, for whole years—awaiting the decision of the authorites, and gradually growing unfit for work. Sometimes a man simply loses his paper; then a few weeks' imprisonment may suffice to right matters. If he himself cannot solve the question, the authorities begin an endless correspondence with all the communes in the empire, besides publicly announcing the person's name and demanding information. If a Hungarian, the chances are ten to one that the communes in the empire, besides publicly announcing the person's name and demanding information. If a Hungarian, the chances are ten to one that the commune for nine months. Another instance, likewise commented upon, was that of a workman who was thus imprisoned for hime months. ## HOW HE CHOSE A CLERK.

Told a Lot of Boys a Story and Found a Born Lawyer.

(Tact in Court:) A lawyer advertised for a clerk. The next morning the office was crowded with applicants—all bright and many suitable. He bade them wait until all should arrive and then arranged them in a row and said he would tell them a story, note their comments and judge from that whom he would choose.

"A certain farmer," began the lawyer, "was troubled with a red squirrel that got in through a hole in his barn and stole his seed corn. He resolved to kill the squirrel at the first opportunity. Seeing him go in at the hole one noon he took his gun and fired away. The first shot set the barn on fire."

"Did the barn burn?" said one of the boys.

The lawyer, without answer conting

you have all shown great interest in the story."

But observing one little bright-eyed fellow in deep silence, he said: "Now, my little man, what have you to say?"

The little fellow blushed, grew uneasy and stammered out: "I want to know what became of the squirrel; that's what I want to know."

"You'll do," said the lawyer, "you are my man; you have not been switched off by confusion and barn-burning and the hired girls and water pails. You have kept your eye on the squirrel."

The Care of Bed and Body Linen-Disease

The Care of Bed and Body Linen-Disease Breeders.

"A nice old lady who knows all about it says that if people would take more care to air their beds and body linen there would be much less nervousness to dilate upon. "Clothes," she says, "should be washed through two suds, and the boiling water and be rinsed twice, once in lukewarm and the last time in cold water. They should, if possible, have six hours of sunshine, and in winter freezing is beneficial. After they have been ironed they should again be exposed to sunshine before they are hung in closets or put away in drawers."

This process will insure perfect cleanilness and exemption from bad odors, which she insists are disease-breeders. This same housekeeper is fond of sweet odors, not the smell of paralyzing musk, jockey club and heliotrope, but nice, spicy smells that make one think of India's coral strand and the pine woods of Maine, clean, healthy smells and this is the way she accomplishes it. It starts out a good deal like mince pies or plum pudding. She takes a half ounce each of cinnamon, nutmeg, mace, cloves, caroway seed and lavender flowers, one ounce of tonga beans and three ounces of orris root, and pounds them all to a powder. Then she makes little muslin bags, into which she puts quanties among her linen. She puts quanties among her woolen clothes when she puts them away, and says the odor keeps out moths, at least she never is troubled with moths when she uses it. The material is so cheap and the labor in preparing so light that the experiment is well worth the trial.

SOME MEN'S AFFECTATIONS.

SOME MEN'S AFFECTATIONS.

Idiotic Stare, Walking Stick, Evening Tie and Nonchalance.

(New York Sun:) It is said on excellent authority that the idiotic stare is still in favor among the exotic youth of swelldom, and any fashionable young man who cannot learn how to abstract every atom of expression from the countenance, and look on vacancy with an expression of imbecility, cannot belong to the select coterie or hold rank in the inner circles.

There are other important matters which must be carefully committed if one desires to be in the van of fashion. The first of these relates to the walking stick, and this, perhaps, involves the most serious responsibility. For the stick must be left at home when going to business, to church or to make calls. The reason of the latter by-law is that, in the language of the stick, to call upon a young lady while carrying a cane implies that the caller is on sufficiently intimate terms to look in on her casually at any time. What finer sufficiently intimate terms to look in on her casually at any time. What finer sufficiently intimate terms to look in on her casually at any time. What finer sufficiently intimate eliquette?

Then there is a fixed and immutable law governing the carrying of the cane. The correct style is to hold it at an dingle of 45 deg., with the ferrule uppermost and forward. Of course, this is the sort of a thing no man could possibly discover for himself, for the unsophisticated would naturally carry his stick with the point to the ground, and in so doing would stand revealed as uninitiated in the supreme refinement of etiquette.

No man with a particle of self-respect would wear a made-up evening tie, and as some men find it quite impossibly discover for himself, for the unsophisticated would naturally carry his stick with the point to the ground, and in so doing would stand revealed as uninitiated in the supreme refinement of etiquette.

IN THE YUKON COUNTRY.

enagetic or pessimistic any more.

**N THE YUKON COUNTRY.**

Part of a Letter from a Pioneer in the Far Northern Gold Diggings.**

(The Montanian:) This camp of Forty Mile was discovered last summer and is the richest yet struck in Alaska, paying $300 a day to the man. The nature of the Yukon country is such that it is a tolerably hard place to get to. The honorable class of old-time miners have possession and tough characters, when found, are at once ordered to leave, several having come out recently.

I will give you prices of a few articles in Forty Mile: Flour, $14 per 100 pounds; bacon, 33 cents per pound; beans, 22 cents, and canned fruit 60 cents. A Mackinaw shirt costs $8 and a pair of gum boots one ounce of gold dust. Now comes the root of all evil—whisky. This sells for 50 cents a drink and $8 a bottle. You can buy everything that a miner needs for less than you can take it in for, as the natives will charge 13 cents a pound to carry it over the mountains, a distance of thirty miles, and no o ne should take anything with him except clothing.

The town of Forty Mile is at the mouth of Forty Mile Creek, on the Yukon. It has two general merchandise stores. One belongs to the Northwest Trading Company and the other to our old-time Montana Friend, Capt. John Healy. There are two saloons and one cigar factory here and 150 miners' cabins with about 350 miners. These make up the town of Forty Mile.

All the northern part of Alaska 18 more or less a level country and it is difficult to get sufficient grade for sitice boxes, and in many places they are compelled to haul timber forty or fifty miles with dog trains. A dog will draw about 300 pounds on the snow. Game is scarce, except rabbits and grouse. You may kill a caribou or moose and again you may not see one for weeks or not at all. Two steamers ply up and down the Yukon, one belonging to John Healy and the other to the trading company at Forty Mile. The ground never thaws out in that country—not over five or six feet at most—and they have never been able t quire. Some spend the winter trapping furs, but they must be on hand by June 15 or their claims will be jumpable according to the Yukon code of laws.

There is one thing I almost forgot to mention. It is the moss which covers all the ground, except what the water runs over, such as the shallow bars along the creek. This moss is from six to eighteen inches thick and must be removed in order that the ground may thaw out. The boys generally make a winter's job of stripping off this moss.

The Wolf-fish.

The wolf or catfish, according to Pennant, seems to be confined to the northern parts of the globe. It is found in the seas of Greenland, in those of Iceland, Norway, and on the coasts of Scotland and Yorkshire. It is a most ravenous and fierce fish and when taken fastens on anything within its reach. The fishermen endeavor as soon as possible to beat out its front teeth and then kill it by striking it behind the head. It feeds on shellfish, crabs, lobsters, prawns, mussels, etc. It is full of roe in February. March and April and spawns in May.

This fish has so disagreeable and horrid an appearance that no one at Scarborough but fishermen will eat it, and and they prefer it to halibut. Before dressing the fish, they always take eff the head and skin. The seawolf grows to a large size. Those found on the Yorkshire coast are sometimes three or four feet in length. They have, however, been taken near Shetland upward of seven feet long. When infuriated this fish will selze on an anchor and leave the marks of its teeth thereon. It swims rapidly and spends most of its time on the bottom of the sea among the rocks.

The Horseshoe as a Mascot.

(St. Louis Republic.) The superstition that associates the horseshoe with good luck is very old. It is said to prevail not only among the English-speaking people, but in all races of Europe and Asia. Antiquarians are undecided whether its origin has to do with the material from which the horseshoe is made or with its shape. Some writers on this subject have surmised that the lucky qualities attributed to the horseshoe were derived from its fancied resemblance to the halo pictured about the heads of the saints, but this connection is highly improbable, as it is known that the superstition certainly antedates Christianity.

The Grip is God's Warn

(Philadelphia Times:) Evangelist
Davenport preached at St. George's Hall last evening on "The World's Preent Crisis." The present disturbed condition of things, he said, is a warning from God that He will soon send His Son, Jesus Christ, to earth to reign as king. The setting of a special time for the coming of Christ he'denounced as a sin. The Christian churches, he said, ought to be preparing for the Lord's coming, and God is grieved because they are not doing so. Hence the troubles which are now causing so much misery in the world.

The grip, Mr. Davenport said, is a warning from God, as is also the universal monetary and commercial panic, and the fear of anarchy and socialism. About sixty years ago, the evangelist said, the Lord chose twelve men, whom He supernaturally called and made apostics like the first twelve, to warn the church and to prepare by apostolic teaching and power all who are to escape the tribulation which will precede Christ's coming.

The church has not yet accepted them, but many individuals have, and these have been formed into churches which are waiting patiently for the Lord's coming, and members of which will escape the present tribulation.

WHEN SMILES ARE IMPOSSIBLE Woman's Pitiable Plight on a Wet and Windy Day.

Weman's Pitiable Plight on a Wet and Windy Day.

The utter absence of a sense of humor from the average feminine composition is never more clearly visible, says the Pail Mail Budget, than in a busy thoroughfare on a wet and windy day. A woman may be a philosopher, she may have original ideas and brilliant theories on the fundamental questions of morality and ethics, but she rarely rises superior to a muddy boot or a draggled petticost. The woman is an exception indeed, who manages to preserve a smilling face in the teeth of an east wind which plays shuttle-cock with her umbrella, and a dreary sleet which bespatters her clothes and freezes her fingers; young or old, fair or plain—scarcely one of them who does not frown ominously as she hurries along, forgetful of other people's feelings and umbrellas and toes, hustling and jostiling, with never a glance for the absurdity of the situation. For there is something unmitigatingly 'fidiculous about pedestrians on a reality bad day; mobody wants to walk on the outside of the pavement because of the splashing omnibuses and cabs; everybody wants to pass everybody else, regardless of the limited space afforded by the conglomeration—of umbrellas; everybody pushes and elbows and shoulders, and when an umbrella appears in sight all considerations of gallantry or politeness or sex or age are forgiten—it becomes an object lesson in 'the survival of the fitteer' and a free fight or something near it ensues, in which the fair sex undoubtedly manage to bear their part with more than tolerable grace. One Woman's Service for Another.

One Woman's Service for Another.

(Church Union:) It is not often that one woman is called upon to help another in circumstances such as we shall now recite: A member of the National Christian League for the Promotion of Social Purity, whose name we are requested not to publish, had a thrilling experience a few days ago, in which was shown a rare example of mental quickness and decision. Riding in a street car her notice was attracted to a woman who, sitting opposite, was evidently quite ill; but before our watchful friend could cross over to her aid she herself came, sat down at her side, and remarked that she was sure she was going to die from paralysis immediately.

The appeal for assistance was not in vain. Not only her name and address were at once obtained, but that of her friends; she was helped from the car; a cab was called, into which she was lifted and taken to a hotel near by; a physician and trained nurse summoned; her husband, in a neighboring city, telegraphed for, and inside of twenty minutes the now insensible invalid was duly cared for by her friends, amid whose ministrations she died about two days afterward without having regained consciousness.

Divorces in France.

(London Times:) The official report of the French Ministry of Justice for 1899 has only just been issued, and it contains particulars as to the operation of the divorce act which came into force in 1886. From that date to December 31, 1890, 38,377 petitions had been lodged, and of these 33,870 had been successful, while 2427 had been rejected, and 2080 had resulted in a compromise.

As to Bere Floors.

It is noticeable that floors left bare for rugs are being painted in much lighter colors than formerly, the dark walnut shade having heretofore been the popular selection. They are frauently painted with yellow ochremixed with white, and the change is desirable, first, because it is a change perhaps and again because they are more correctly, dust is not in such constant evidence. The lighter floors are more cheery, too. Any one who has been in a convent, where the oiled and waxed floors are not painted, but take on a slightly deeper tint than the natural wood from the treatment of oilling and waxing, must have remarked the furnished look of the rooms without even a single rug to break the highler shade was undoubtedly responsible.

The Histery of Silk Stockings.

ing the first woman to wear silk stockings. Here is the story: In the second year of Queen Elizabeth, 1560, her silk woman, Mistress Montague, presented Her Majesty at a New Year's gift with a pair of black silk stockings, the which, after a few days' wearing, pleased Her Highness so well that she sent for Mistress Montague and asked her where she could help her to any more. Mistress Montague answered: "I made them very carefully on purpose only for Your Majesty, and seeing these please you so well, I will presently set more in hand." "Do so." droth the Queen, "for, indeed, I like silk stockings so well, because they are pleasant, fine and delicate, that henceforth I will wear no more cloth stockings.

POINTERS ON MAKING OVER.

(From Our Regular New York Fashion Correspondent.)

Women may rail at the overdress, but it serves her well who wants to make over, and now is the time when old gowns need refreshing and when women are reckoning on what they want to spend later on spring dresses. The skirt that is worn at the edge may be taken just as it is, and a foot or less be taken just as it is, and a foot or less be cut off all around or turned up. It back with silk. For underskirt, a silk' party skirt is used with the train cut off and made into lots of little frills for the edge of the rest of it. If the color of the party dress is one that contrasts prettily and not too violently with the cloth of the other dress, let it be just as it is. Otherwise have it dyed. All silk materials dye beautifully soft and bright. If the party skirt was very full in the back and the cloth does not set easy over it, then slit the seams at both sides of the cloth skirt. In case you have not a whole underskirt of silk to use, then make a sham skirt, with a deep edge of silk at the foot, covered with ruffles, and a good wide panel of silk set in to show under the opened seams of the cloth. Do not depend on tacking the overskirt, however, to guard against the edge flying back and exposing the sham. Lace the edges loosely together or tie them together, or they may be buttoned with handsome buttons to the underskirt, the buttonholes being emphasized into decorative effect by braiding.

There is nothing in this illustration which suggests the presence or need of making over, for it is a brand-new rig, and a swagger one at that. It is made from drab cloth, and has a white cloth waistcoat and a cravat of mousseline de sole trimmed with lace. The little jacket is of drab cloth with revers of white. Pale mawe velvet is the material of the cape and marabout is the trimming. The whole costume is practically jaunty, almost aggressively so.

FLORETTE.

The Chin-se Lily.

One of the daffodils is held in high honor by the Chinese and Japanese, who have cultivated it for centuries. They believe that, as long as it is in their houses it will drive away all manner of evil, and so they look upon it as a sacred plant and the emblem of "good luck." And this is the story they tell about it: Once upon a time a father left his property to be equally divided between his two sons, the elder of whom, however, took the better share, giving his brother only one acrewhich was mostly rock and water. While the young man sat by the water's side grieving for the loss of his portion a fairy gave him three bulbs, bidding him drop them in the water. This he did, and by and by they bore lovely flowers that were admired by all who say them. The bulbs multiplied so fast that by the sale of them their owner grew very rich in a few years. Then envy fell upon the elder brother, and he tried to buy all the bulbs; but no fairy came, to tell him the secret of their growth, and as he planted them in the dry earth they never flourished. In course of time he grew so poor he was forced to hand his property over to his younger brother, who thus not only gained his rightful share, but his greedy, grasping elder brother's as well. This is the legend that led the Chinese to regard the lily as sacred.

lodged, and of these 33,870 had been successful, while 2437 had been rejected, and 2080 had resulted in a compromise.

Concurrently with the increase in the number of printions for divorce the suits for separation decreased; having failien from 2479 in 1884 to 2041 in 1890. The number of divorces and separations to every 1000 marriages was respectively 24 and 5 in 1890, while in 63 cases out of 100 the petition for divorce was lodged by the wife, and in 87 cases out of 100 for separation. More than half of the petitions for divorce was lodged by the working classes, while tradespoole were 20 per cent. The liberal professions 12 per cent. and darmers and peasants, 9 per cent. and darmers and peasants, 9 per cent. and darmers and peasants, 9 per cent. In 35 of every 100 cases the petitioning party had been matried from 5 to 10 years, in 28 from 10 to 20 years, in 28 from 10

As Expairly Boracher.

(Boston Transcript) The great geographer, Elisee Reclus, whose atlas is in use all over France, has been snubbed by the Brussels authorities, owing to his Anarchistic opinions. He is remarkably scientific, but heterodox to the verge of insanity. About ten years ago he started a nine days' wonder in Paris by giving a stately dinner in honor of the betrothal of his two daughters. At dessert he arose and solemnly addressed the amazed guests. He exhorted them to remember that marriage was a fetter, and that as we lived in a republican country fetters were not appropriate. He then solemnly blessed the two young couples and told them to go in peace. One of his future sons-in-law incontinently took his future wife to the house of his own mother and after the requisite legal formalities married her before the mayor, whereupon Reclus cut the couple dead on the ground that they were the slaves of effete superstition and corrupt tradition.

Christian Endeavor Convention-A Midnight Blaze-Brisk February Breezes-Personal and Social

Washington's birthday passed about as Washington's birthday passed about as most holidays do in Pasadena. There was a general cessation of business, the banks and many of the stores, together with the schools, being closed. Notwithstanding the brisk breezes that blew Santa Ana-like all day, the town was visited by a large number of people, and the resources of the local liveries were put to a severe test. The streets were crowded with gay turnouts of every description, and cyclists could be counted by the hundreds almost. At the Presbyterian Church yesterday the Los Angeles County Christian En-deavor Union held a convention through-out the entire day and out the entire day and evening. Nearly three hundred members of the different societies of the county were present, and the exercises of each session attracted the exercises of each session attracted uch interest. The president of the mion, Dr. Price of Los Angeles, preded, and the morning session opened the devotional exercises conducted by m. George E. The subject of "The Social Side of Christian Endeavor" was taken up in an able manner by George Taylor of Whittier, after which considerable time was devoted to an intermission for the purpose of allowing those present to enjoy some of the advantages of the social intercourse recommended. The reopening of the business session took place with appropriate religious exercises, and two interesting papers followed, one on "Cooperation," by George Burnham of Pasadena, and the other on "Christian Endeavor Citizenship," by Rev. J. M. Wylle of Denver. Five-minute speeches by W. D. Ball, Rev. F. J. Culver and others, together with congregational singing, brought the morning session to a close. Committees were appointed as follows: Nominating Committee—S. M. Allen, Pasadena; Miss Saxton, Los Angeles; Mr. Halliday, Pomona.

Committee on Resolutions—W. D. Ball, Los Angeles; Miss Bufkin, Pasadena; Benjamin W. Hahn, Pasadena.

The Woman's Relief Corps extended a general invitation to the visitors to take luncheon in Grand Army Hall, where a bountiful luncheon was spread, and many availed themselves of the opportunity. Shortily before 1 o'clock p.m., a junior hour was held, the exercises being led by Fred Hambright of Los Angeles, Miss Ethel Myers of Los Angeles, Miss Cock, Miss Baxter of Los Angeles, Miss Challes, Miss Grace Machin Pasadena, on "The Missionary Committee." Albert Moore delivered a message to the seniors on their responsibility to the juniors.

MIDNIGHT BLAZE.

About midnight Wednesday, a barn belonging to J. S. Mills, near the Raymond station, took fire, supposedly from a locomotive spark, and was destroyed, together with all of its contents, which consisted chiefly of an outift of stoves, dishes, cooking utensils, furniture, beds and bedding, provisions, etc., which Contractor Thomas Banbury, who is at work on South Fair Oaks avenue, had provided only a few days before for his gang of workmen, who made their headquarters at the barn. Four horses that were standing in an adjoining shed were gotten out only after strenuous efforts on the part of the teamster, who lost most of his clothing and a watch in the attempt. It is related that Mr. Banbury when he heard of the occurrence, generously handed over his own gold watch to the teamster. All of the men escaped without injury. Mr. Banbury's loss is estimated at about $50. The barn was valued at about $50. The barn was valued at about the *ame amount, and was partly insured. MIDNIGHT BLAZE.

Eesides being a heavy taxpayer, he has always been setive in pushing forward public improvements, especially in the line of street work, as all the residents of Grand avenue will attest, and is in all respects a representative citizen—just the kind of a man that is needed on the Council. The Hare and Hounds Hunt-Brevities

The Hare and Hounds Hunt—Brevities of Local and General Interest.

A greater number of equipages, fewer hounds, the capture of one of the hares, and a Spanish band, constituted the chief points of difference between this event and the chase which took place last month. Twice as many turnouts attended the meet at the Hope Lake as on the last occasioh, and although the number of horsemen and women who rode out to the lake to see the fun was greater than before, the majority preferred to remain at the rendevous, listening to the Spanish band, rather than career round the ranch on a paper trail. Three minutes start was allowed the hares, Messrs, Barrett Fithian and R. N. Truman, both heavy weights. A circle of the ranch was to be made, the finish to be at the point of starting. A closer run could not be conceived. False casts put the majority of the hounds off the track and out of the hunt. Dudley Smith, however, happened to strike the right trail every time, and soon got within sight of the hares. Certain of the sporting fraternity in this town, without attending the hunt, had laid heavy odds against Mr. Fithian reaching his goal without being caught, as the gentleman got "in" three minutes before the first hound, Dudley Smith, who had succeeding in collaring the tother hare a few yards from home. Taking into consideration the number of pounds his horse was carrying. Mr. Fithian's riding must have been amazing. Dudley has been with us some time now, and his saddle seat is too well known to need comment. He made his time coming down a steep and brushy hill particularized in a previous account of the last hunt. Down this he rode vaquero fashion, his horse taking the sage in bucking leaps.

No less than five drags with four horses apiece were on the grounds. A particularly smart wagonette belonged to and was handled by I. G. Waterman, the ribbons bitted to four spanking bays.

Some instructive statistics were contained in the report of Health Officer Dr. Casal, submitted to a recent meeting of the Board of Health of this city. During a five-year period, ending December 31, 1882, the average annual mortality was at the rate of 22.13 per 100. During the past year 94 deaths ocurred, giving a death rate of 75.66 per annum. Of these 58 were males, 36 females; 15 were under 1 year; 14 between 60 and 70; 11 over 70; 6 over $2, and 1 $5.

Thirty-four of the decedents were Spanish-American. Tuberculosis killed 22 of whom 9 were Spanish-Americans; zymotic diseases caused 6 deaths; local diseases caused 6 deaths; local diseases. 22. The birth record of 183 shows 135; 71 were male; 64 female; 67 of the 135 were Spanish-American. ### ORANGE COUNTY.

A Great Game of Baseball at Santa Ana.

Quite a Windstorm Throughout the County-Some Damage to the Orange Crop-News Notes and Personals from Anaheim.

It was a great game of ball that Capt. Keating's aggregation of fit and missit ball-players of the city of Los Angeles and the local club of this city put up yesterday. It was a great game, not exactly as much on account of exceptional playing as upon the number of runs made by the home team. The visitors, who, by the way, are a fine set of fellows, flew down from the Angel City on the morning train, bringing with them fourteen willows, several spheres and their bright red uniforms.

It was 2:45 p.m. before game was called, and for a time the visitors looked so neat and bright that the "peepers" of the Santa Ana players were dazzled with their brilliancy. But the local boys had on their batting clothes, and the several hundred spectators were soon made aware of this important fact. When Umpire Fred Mansur called "Batter up," Al Harlin of the locals picked up the willow and swished it through the air a couple of times, just to see how the thing was done, and then he landed a short hit in order to take his place at first. Tom Harlin followed by grounding to short just right for the visitors to make a beautiful double play, retiring both he shad his brother. Young Hickey, who is always full of sensational plays, sent the ball out over the field kerplunk right on top of a convenient barn, and didn't stop running until he reached second base, and on Peters's safe hit to center-field registered the first run of the game.

When the visitors came to the ball shad was a beautiful fly way out to center, sending Boz home, but losing his own head later on account of Cleveland, the prophet, failing to locate the ball.

The barn over in an adjoining lot seemed to be a target for the locals, for in the second inning the ball was again sent on its roof by Mosbaugh, Reed and Hariin. In return, Buskirk, of the visitors, broke a bat, hit wild on the sint sending him off on one foot and making usily faces, but he failed to reach the initial bag. Slaney and Baln, however, sprinted around the diamond, and therefore each was given a

VIOLET TEA.

A delightful tea was given Wednesday atternoon by Mrs. Frank Ey at her beautiful residence, on North Main street, in honor of Sedgwick W.R.C. The parlors were handsomely decorated with flowers and foliage, and on every hand the eye found the beauty of biending and contrasting tints. Dainty refreshments were served in the dining-room from 4 to 5 o'clock. Among the decorations on the tables were many unique and beautiful designs. The most notable were two vases in crystal and silver, which were quaint and artistic relics of the family. The tables bore a weaith of white and blue violets, and the favors were emblematic of the order of the W.R.C. being white and blue violets, tied with red ribbon. The following paragraph from the Anaheim Gazette would indicate that the end of the Chinese trouble at Fullerton is not yet: "The indignation mentioned in these columns last week as existing at Fullerton over the importation of a gang of Chinese orange-pickers, imported by Porter Bros, purchasers of the Benchly crop, culminated in the populace getting together and notifying the heathen to leave. This they did, going to Loss Anseles on the evening train. Early this week Porter Bros, sent down another gang of Chinamen to pick the oranges on the ranch. This time they were guarded by an officer from Los Angeles, the county paying his expenses. A petition has been circulated protesting against the employment of these Chinese, to which, at last accounts, 185 names had been appended, only three men in the entire community refusing to sign it. The protest has been presented to Porter Bros, and the other commission men at Los Angeles, in the hope that the gang may be made to follow in the footsteps of the last gang that made its appearance at Fullerton. The call for the meeting was made to see what can be done toward providing funds to carry on the exhibit of this county at the fair, a message having been received to the effect that the exhibit is liable to be attached at any time by the mechanics who want their pay for work done in preparing for the exhibit.

The funds collected and forwarded for making and maintaining the exhibit have been exhausted in the work, and an indebtedness of about $1400 in addition incurred. The $2000 given by the county fathers has been exhausted, and the $900 raised by subscriptions, amounting to over $2000 in addition, have been pledged, and they will have to be paid more rapidly than was asked for when the subscriptions were taken. As the cost of installing the exhibit has been greater than was anticipated, the subscribers feel that the cost of maintaining the exhibit was reported as attracting a great deal of attention. It was finally decided to appoint a committee of two to make a thorough canvass, from house to house, as it were, for additional subscriptions. W. J. Curtis and E. E. Katz were made that committee, who were instructed to be prepared to report at another meting to be held on Saturday night.

Thursday was one of those days which makes the average Pomona citizen glad that he has cast his lot in the particular free from sandstorm or Mormon rain or electrical storm, or whatever one is

while on all sides of the city the wind was howling and the sand flying so thickly that the mountains could not be and the residents passed the time feeling sorry for those who happened to get the disagreeable wind. As has been stated, Pomona is situated so that the hills and mountains protect her in a remarkable manner, and this fact has brought many a resident to this favored spot.

The Santa Fe passenger train which delayed that it did not reach here till about 11 o'clock. A few miles east of the city the engine ran into a sandbank and was ditched. The engineer was slightly cut about the head, but was not seriously hurt. No further damage was done. A large crowd gathered at the field-day sports, and they were glad to get off in time to see the fun. No damage is reported from this section of the country.

Quiet Holiday-Interesting Concert and

A Quiet Holiday—Interesting Concert and Recital—Death's Harvest.
February 22 at the Soldiers', Home was given the quiet of holiday observance. The usual daily employments were suspended, as far as practicable. Unfortunately the wind made it too uncomfortable for the full enjoyment of the outside beauties of the place, and the rather larger than usual quota of visitors had to content themselves as best they could with quiet within or with bluster without.

to content themselves as best they could with quiet within or with bluster without.

The event of the day, and, in fact, the event of the season, was the concert and recital given in the dining-hail between 2 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Grace Remmington Davis was easily the central figure in the excellent programme rendered. She has sung for the home people before, and her first appearance on Thursday afternoon was a signal for a storm of welcome. The lady possesses a powerful, well-cultivated voice, which is thorsughly musical at all points of its extensive range. She sings easily, accompanying her voice with appropriate dramatic action. Her first number was the "Star Spangled Banner," with which she has previously charmed the home's audience. It was preceded on this occasion by the presentation by Commander Batchelder on behalf of John A. Martin Fost, G. A. R., with the handsome silk hag with which the periods of the song were subsequently emphasized. Before the conclusion of the exercises Miss Davis responded to numerous recalls, thoroughly pleasing her audience. Other parts of the programme were ably supported by T. Foley Parker in comic and character song, and by Edward Fabian, of New York, whose recitations from "Sheridan's Ride" to the concluding "Middlerib's Cure for Rheumatism" by Burdette, gave scope for the display of wide versitality. The whole programme was interspersed with music by the home band and orchestra, and it cannot be claimed that the patronage accorded by the veterans was equal to the occasion, or showed a sufficient appreciation of the efforts now and heretofore made in their behalf. The following is the programme as rendered:

It is not improbable that the cool and variable weather has contributed to the unusually large death roll.

If the Home Library is to be materially enriched by the contributions which began so hopefully some months since, it is evident that a revival of interest in the subject will be necessary. For some weeks there have been no contributions worth mentioning, and still the shelves yawn with unoccupied room, and the "old boys" search in vain for new material with which to banish ennui.

Mayor Carison and the Board of Public Works are still having a time of it. At the Council meeting on Monday night the Mayor naminated Fred Osborne, T. M. Shaw and Capt. W. R. Moire to succeed the board he had fired. The Mayor also roasted the City Attorney, who had given the opinion that the Mayor's removal of the former board was illegal. The Mayor contended that he knew quite as much law as the City Attorney. The lobby of the Council chamber was packed with Carison smypath.zers and Populkits, and the Mayor's defant attitude was widly applauded, and a resolution was adopted authorizing the Mayor to use force if necessary to eject the old Board of Fublic Works. New complications have arisen over the returnal of two of the Mayor's new appointees to serve, and the incapacity of the third, Capt. Moire, who is on the retired list of the army.

We are offering for sale 264 acres of the famous San Marino Ranch, the property of the Hon. J. De Barth Shorb, adjoining Pasadena and overlooking the San Gabriel Valley. Magniticent live oak trees abound on this property, which with its other natural b auties make it the finest location for villa sites in Southern California.

It is free from frost, and the natural springs of water rising on the land, which have flowed undeveloped since the days of the Mission Fathers, give it one of the most valuable water rights in the vall-y.

Large bodies of land lving to the south of this property, which are being rap dif settled open and planted, look to it as the natural source of their water supply. Every dollar spent in the development of water, for which there is ready market, will repay a thousandfold.

A good portion of the ranch is planted to citrus and deciduous fruits, which are just coming into full bearing.

The famous orange grove of Col. J. R. Robbins of San Gabriel adjoins this on the south and is acknowledged to be the finest in the valley, which fully demonstrates the capabilities of the soil

While a little band of Salvationists was holding its usual ser ices on Spring street Anderson, who was upon the edge of the crowd which surrounded it, coolly proceeded to rifle the pockets of the Salvation lassies nearest to him. One of the bystanders saw him slip his hand into a woman's pocket and spoke to him, but the fellow ran a horrible bluff on his accuser and slipped away unnoticed. A few minutes later he singled out a colored woman named Mrs. Strickland as his next victim. As she was walking along near the-People's Store she felt some one grab her purse and turning round saw Anderson running away. A man named W. M. Russell, who happened to see the occurrance, pluckily gave chase and running the thief down handed him over to Officer O'Reagan. During his flight Anderson, finding that he was being overhauled by his pursuer, dropped the stolen purse but was seen to do so by another citizen, who picked it up and took it to the police station.

GEN. GRANT.

Unwritten Chapters of the History of the Great Man.

A fair-sized audience assembled in G.A.R. Hall last evening to listen to a lecture by Gen. A. L. Chetlain of Chicago. Gen. E. Bouton presided. A colored quartette favored the audience with several negro melodies, which were recived with several negro melodies, which were recived with generous applause with several negro melodies, which were recived with generous applause. Gen. Chetlain prefaced his lecture by stating that his paper might be called a few chapters from unwritten history of Gen. Grant. The first part of the address covered that portion of Gen. Grant's life from the time he enlisted to his appointment as brigadier-general. Gen. Chetlain first made the acquaintance of Gen. Grant in the spring of 1860, when he (Grant) was clerking in the leather house of his father and brother in Galena, Ill.

Gen. Chetlain's eyesight being defective, Rev. Dr. Edwards of New York read his manuscript.)

The lecturer gave a graphic description of the first war-meeting held in Galena, four days after the first call for volunteers in April, 1861. The Mayor of Galena presided, and created a sensation by making an anti-war speech. At a second meeting Capt. Grant presided, and with considerable embarrassment stated the object of the meeting. A company was organized, of which Gen. Chetlain was elected captain, Grant decining on the ground that, having been educated at West Point, he ought to be able to secure something better.

He accompanied the company to Springfield with hope of securing some

Grant decining on the ground that, having been educated at West Point, he ought to be able to secure something better.

He accompanied the company to Springfield with hope of securing some position. He was informed that there was nothing for him. Finally he was set to ruling blanks in the Adjutant-General's office. Grant, disgusted, went to St. Louis to consult with his friend Gen. Lyons, and on his return stopped with the Twelfth Illinois Regiment, of which Gen. Chetlain was lieutenant-colonel. Grant remarked, while his guest, that he thought he was competent to command a regiment.

Grant went to Ohio seeking a position and returned to Galera utterly discouraged. He was finally appointed colonel of the Twenty-first Illinois Infantry in June. When appointed he had no means to buy his horse, and he obtained a loan from one of the partners of the leather house at Galena, his father, for some reason, declining to furnish the money. It was some time afterward before he was able to buy a uniform, and for some time he carried an old cavalry sword that he obtained from the arsenal at St. Louis.

The lecturer described the jealousy existing among the regular officers over the rapid appointment of Gen. Grant. He described the petty persecutions of Grant by Halleck, and his (Halleck's) telegram to the Secretary of War asking the Secretary to appoint Gen. C. F. Smith a major-general for his victory at Fort Donelson. The lecturer gave a description of the baxice of Shitoh, and of the advance on Corinth when Halleck arms, and the suggestions of Gen. Grant, lengthened the war at least a year. In 1862 a determined effort was made by the politicians to remove Grant from the command of his army. Twice Grant's removal had been decided upon, and Dana, the assistant Secretary of War, arrived at Vicksburg on the 1st of July with the order for Grant's removal. On the 4th of July Vicksburg surrendered and Grant was the hero of the nation. Even Halleck complimented him upon his victory.

WONDERFUL CURES!

Dr. Hong Soi has cured over 4800 people who were afficted with nearly every form of the various diseases the human form is heir to. Fully 95 per cent of these cases were made of wrecks that could not find relief in the other system of medicine as practiced. There are over 3000 kinds of medicines (all roots and herbs and bark.) which he imports
